Pinocchio sells the book that Geppetto had given to him in exchange for a ticket to go to the Puppet Show. Just the puppets see him, they stop the show making Mangiafuoco very angry - he wants to burn Pinocchio.

So Pinocchio tells Mangiafuoco his story; the man takes pity on Pinocchio and makes him free. He also gave him some coins.

Soon, Pinocchio meets the Cat and the Fox and they go to dinner together. The Cat and the Fox tell him the story about the "Miracle field", where they want to take him to bury his coins. They scrounge dinner and then attack him. Pinocchio was able to escape once, but he was soon caught, and when he reached the front of a little white house he was hung on a tree.

The Blue Fairy helps Pinocchio to heal the fever... she saves him.
Pinocchio tells her his story but his nose gets very long because he tells lots of lies.

Coming home to Geppetto, he again meets the Cat and the Fox who told Pinocchio to bury the coins in the Miracle Field. Pinocchio sows the coins, but, the next day, he comes back and it turns out he has been robbed.
So Pinocchio, with no more coins and very hungry, tries to steal grapes in a field; a farmer surprises him and forces him to guard his chicken coop.
